

Courage 2017 Memo

RE: Courage 2017 Mission Project

TO: Kentucky RAs, RA Leaders, Challengers, and Challengers Leaders

STATUS LEVEL: High Importance!

All Kentucky RAs, RA leaders, Challengers, Challengers leaders, and any other men and boys who plan to participate in Courage 2016 are being asked to help complete a mission project while at camp that will benefit the ministry of one of our mission speakers.

Tim Bargo, the director of First Priority Tri-County, will be sharing with us about the First Priority ministry among high school students in the tri-county area, which includes the nearby city of Corbin. First Priority is a mission that employs evangelism and discipleship to minister to students in the area high schools. Salvation bracelets are one of the tools employed in the evangelism outreach efforts.

Many of you have seen, used, and made bracelets using colored beads. Our mission project this year will be to assemble a good supply of these salvation bracelets for Tim to take with him after he speaks on Saturday.

So, you do not need to collect anything, and you do not need to bring anything with you. But you do need to come to camp ready to spend some time assembling bracelets on Friday after you register, or on Saturday morning during the activity time.

By doing this, Kentucky RA and Challengers groups will be partnering with Tim Bargo and First Priority Tri-County to reach students with the Good News of Jesus Christ.
